It is not recommended that children be brought to WIRES' courses, as they are designed for adults. If children do attend, it is their parents/guardians responsibility to adequately supervise them. If children behave disruptively both they and their parents may be asked to leave.

Participants are advised that issues on subjects such as euthanasia, disease, and autopsy will be discussed and bodies of deceased birds and animals, which may have sustained traumatic injuries, will be displayed. Children may find this distressing.

The use of dead animals also carries the risk of potential zoonosis.

I, the undersigned, acknowledge that I may be in close proximity to native animals, both dead and alive, during this training course.

I acknowledge that due to the unpredictable nature of wild native animals there is a high risk and I and any children that accompany me may sustain injuries or possible disease.

I consent to attend the training course of WIRES _____ Branch, taking all care not to endanger myself and/or others.

I agree to supervise any children that accompany me at the training course.

I agree not to hold the organisers of the training course, other applicants and WIRES Inc responsible or liable for any injury or possible disease I and any children that accompany me may sustain.
